

in process

Karen Packebusch

Paracetamol

(Observations of a migraine)

Drawings

I was lying in bed reading a book by Siri Hustvedt when I happened to glance down. And there they were: seven centimetre tall yellow and pink bunnies - perfectly formed. I watched them as they hopped around. I never saw them again.

Karen Packebusch

Paracetamol

(Observations of a migraine)

2018

Paracetamol 1/XXVIII

pencil on paper
500 x 700 mm

Paracetamol 5/XXVIII

pencil on paper
500 x 700 mm

Paracetamol 16/XXVIII

pencil on paper
500 x 700 mm

Paracetamol 12/XXVIII

pencil on paper
500 x 700 mm

Paracetamol 2/XXVIII

pencil on paper
500 x 700 mm

Paracetamol 22/XXVIII

pencil on paper
500 x 700 mm

Paracetamol 16/XXVIII

pencil on paper
500 x 700 mm

Paracetamol 4/XXVIII

pencil on paper
500 x 700 mm

Paracetamol 18/XXVIII

pencil on paper
500 x 700 mm

Paracetamol 17/XXVIII

pencil on paper
500 x 700 mm

Paracetamol 15/XXVIII

pencil on paper
500 x 700 mm

Paracetamol 26/XXVIII - today: bunny

pencil on paper
500 x 700 mm

Paracetamol 13/XXVIII

pencil on paper
500 x 700 mm

Paracetamol 28/XXVIII

pencil on paper
500 x 700 mm

© photographs

Karen Packebusch, Lars Goldhahn (S. 27), Staatsbibliothek Berlin